Nesmith Farmer Killed In Tractor Accident

By A Special Correspondent

NESMITH—Elwood Blanton 53, whose family was the 1971 Williamsburg Farm Family of the year, was killed Friday afternoon in a tractor accident.

Williamsburg County Coroner Guy T. McIntosh said Blanton apparently lost control of the tractor which hit a tree. He was thrown from the tractor and suffered head and body injuries.

According to McIntosh, he had been using the tractor near the barn on his historic Bullard Hall Farm.

He was found a few minutes after the accident by Randy Prosser, an employee. The tractor was still running. No inquest is planned.

The funeral arrangements will be announced by the Morris Funeral Home.

Mr. Blanton was born at Loris, a son of the late Samuel Porter and Flossie Harrelson Blanton. He was a veteran of five years U.S. Army service during World War II, most of that time in the European Theatre. He was a member of Nesmith Baptist Church, the American Legion Post No. 84 of Hemingway, and the Veterans of Foreign Wars Kingstree Post.

Surviving are: his widow, Mr. Irene Cannon Blanton of Nesmith; three daughters, Mrs. Priscilla Bravo of Savannah, Ga., Mrs. Barbara Watson of Kingstree and Miss Cindy Blanton of Florence; three sons, Kenneth Blanton of Anderson, Sgt. Darryl Blanton of the U.S. Air Force in Vietnam, and Clarence Blanton of Florence; three sisters, Mrs. Charlie Sheehan of Lancaster, Mrs. Leneau Roberts of Rock Hill, Mrs. William McAlhany of Aiken; four brothers, Dolphus Blanton, and John D. Blanton, both of Loris, J.T. Blanton of Lancaster and Elroy Blanton of Camden; three grandsons.

4 Officers Receive Appreciation Awards

By A Special Correspondent

KINGSTREE—Four law enforcement officers received awards for outstanding service in Williamsburg County Thursday night.

The occasion was the Optimist-sponsored banquet honoring all of the county's law enforcement officers at Kingstree elementary school.

"This was our way of honoring our city, county, State Highway Patrol and South Carolina Wildlife Game Wardens," said W. H. Thomas, secretary-treasurer and banquet chairman of the Optimist Club.

Receiving the awards in the four categories were: City: Kingstree Police Sergeant Carl Lockhart; County: Hemingway Deputy Sheriff Walter Britton; State Highway Patrol: Sergeant J. H. Lanier, stationed in Kingstree until his recent transfer to Florence; and S. C. Wildlife Dept.: James Langley of Cades. More than 55 officers attended the appreciation banquet which was a focus of National Law Enforcement Week May 1 to May 6.

Neighborhood Crime Patrols Recommended

COLUMBIA (AP)—Sheriff Frank Powell of Richland County is recommending the formation of neighborhood patrols against housebreakings.

Powell said housebreakings increased last year and there were more daytime thefts than at night.

West Signs Bill Ruled 'Special'

By HUGH E. GIBSON
Special Assignments Editor

COLUMBIA—Gov. John C. West has inadvertently signed into law a local Williamsburg County bill ruled unconstitutional "special" legislation three days earlier by the state attorney general's office.

Three identical bills applying to the counties of Allendale, Lee and Marion meanwhile have been passed by the General Assembly and are also awaiting the governor's signature.

The tangled question of solid waste disposal was further snarled when West, unaware of the attorney general's opinion, signed the Williamsburg bill April 17. Like the other three bills, it provided a one-year exemption from the July 1 requirement that solid waste disposal systems be approved by either the Pollution Control Authority or the State Board of Health.

At the request of PCA Director H. J. Webb, however, Asst. Atty. Gen. Edwin D. Brading checked the Williamsburg bill and reported it violated the prohibition against "special" legislation of Article III in the State Constitution. That says, in effect, that no "special" law may be enacted when a general statute can be made applicable.

Brading said there was nothing to indicate any "peculiar local conditions requiring special treatment" for Williamsburg on solid waste disposal.

Sen. LaNue Floyd, D-Williamsburg, said the bill was deemed necessary because his county simply didn't have the money to meet the requirements laid down by the new regulation for disposing of solid waste.

But, with the unconstitutional bill already law, the real question was what is to be done about it. Repeat was the obvious answer.

Floyd said that was a decision he would leave up to West. "Whatever he wants to do is all right with me," he affirmed.

At the governor's office, Press Secretary H. Kelly Jones said he was glad the senator was taking that attitude. Jones would not predict, however, what West's decision will be.

Dental Assn. Meeting To Open Sunday

MYRTLE BEACH—Myrtle Beach becomes the dental capital of the state Sunday as more than 1,000 dentists, their wives and dental auxiliaries arrive here to participate in the 103rd annual session of the South Carolina Dental Assn. May 7-10.

Presiding over the four-day session will be Dr. Harold L. Carlson of Spartanburg, president of the association.

Chief session theme will be prevention and control of dental disease, and prevention experts from three states will discuss all aspects of the topic.

Among the speakers are Dr. Sumter S. Arnim of Houston, dean emeritus of the University of Texas graduate school of biomedical sciences; Dr. W. H. Aldridge of Greenville, N. C., a specialist in diseases of the gums; and Dr. Charles W. King of Charleston, on the faculty of the College of Dental Medicine of the Medical University of South Carolina.

Keynoting the session will be the nation's top dental administrator, Dr. C. Gordon Watson of Chicago. Dr. Watson is executive director of the 115,000-member American Dental Assn. Another top ADA official participating in the session will be Dr. John M. Faust of Hattiesburg, Miss., who serves as trustee of the ADA district that includes South Carolina.

Meeting in conjunction with SCDMA will be four dental auxiliary organizations: the Women's Auxiliary, Dental Hygienists' Assn., Dental Assistants' Assn. and Dental Laboratory Assn.

At the conclusion of the session, a Columbia dentist, Dr. George A. Lippard Jr., will be installed as president.

Mrs. Craven Funeral Service Today

The funeral for Mrs. Sallie Craven, 105, of 38 St. Augustine Dr., will be held today at Stuhls' Downtown Funeral Chapel. Mrs. Craven was the widow of Jim W. Craven. She died Thursday in a Summerville nursing home.

Mrs. Craven's late husband was a veteran of the Civil War. Last Sept. 4, on her 105th birthday, she received a personal letter from President Richard M. Nixon.

She was the oldest member in the history of the Rutledge Avenue Baptist Church and attended that church until she was more than 100 years old.

She is survived by three daughters and one son; 18 grandchildren; 46 great-grandchildren; and 11 great-great-grandchildren.

Guilty Plea Entered By Sheriff

GREENVILLE (UPI)—Anderson County Sheriff James H. Williams Friday pleaded guilty to the conspiracy count of a seven-count indictment charging him with alleged interstate transportation of stolen properties.

Williams had earlier pleaded not guilty to the entire indictment. However, as his trial got under way Friday, Williams asked to change his plea to the conspiracy count.

U.S. District Judge J. Robert Martin Jr. asked Williams, "I am saying to you, are you guilty? Did you do the act of which you are charged?"

Williams replied, "Yes, sir."

The plea was taken dealing strictly with the conspiracy count of the indictment.

The U.S. District Attorney's office then agreed not to prosecute Williams on the remaining six counts.

Among the charges in the conspiracy count to which Williams pleaded guilty were allegedly conspiring to the interstate transportation of stolen motor vehicles, interstate transportation of falsely made and forged securities, receiving and selling merchandise valued at more than $5,000, and aiding and abetting in the commission of the said offenses.

Martin told Williams: "It is obvious that there has been communication between the district attorney and your attorney Mr. (William) Fant—better known as plea bargain."

Martin said that he would delay sentencing until sometime next week. Williams faces a maximum sentence of five years in prison and a $10,000 fine, or both.

Williams has been suspended from his duties as sheriff pending the outcome of the trial.

He had earlier announced his intentions to run for re-election. However, Fant said Williams would probably announce next week that he would not offer for the post again.

Med. U. Bond Bill Given 2nd Reading

By HUGH E. GIBSON
Special Assignments Editor

COLUMBIA—Legislation authorizing the S. C. Medical University's trustees to build a clinical sciences building and renovate its teaching hospital got a quick Senate second reading Friday without debate.

Passage is expected next week and will send the bill on to the House for the final legislative touches.

The authority to issue up to $7 million in "special" obligation bonds at a time will enable the university to construct the $10 million clinical sciences facility that is its top priority need. Only about $3.5 million will come from the bonds. The remaining funds already are on hand from a variety of sources.

Renovation of the 16-year-old hospital has been estimated to cost $3 million.

With the prior approval of the State Budget and Control Board, the trustees may also make other improvements to the buildings and equipment of the university.

At no time, however, may more than $7 million in bonds be outstanding. And, before a new series of bonds may be issued, the trustees must have in the bond reserve they will establish at least 15 per cent of the principal of all bonds outstanding and to be issued.

To amortize the bonds, the bill authorizes the trustees to assess special student fees and charges and to charge parking fees. It also empowers the university to use funds obtained from other sources for plant improvements.

Primaries Today Are In N. C., Texas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Voters go to the polls Saturday in North Carolina and Texas, where a woman is seeking the gubernatorial nomination and school busing is an issue.

The Democratic and Republican primaries in Texas are complicated by a variety of issues, including a straw vote on school busing. There are half a dozen statewide races as well as numerous contests for congressional nominations.

Texas Democrats will get their first chance ever to express a preference in the presidential race, through a complex system involving precinct conventions.

The race for the Democratic nomination for governor has drawn the most interest. A central issue is a bank loans-stock scandal involving improperly secured bank loans which allegedly were made to certain officials so they could buy stocks and reap quick profits.

Two major reform candidates emerged, including a woman—Frances Farenthold, a two-term state representative. Gov. Presto Smith is seeking a third term.

Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, fresh from his win in Tennessee, and former North Carolina Gov. Terry Sanford are battling it out in North Carolina, hoping for that state's 64 first-ballot delegate votes.

Also on the Democratic ballot are Sens. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine and Henry M. Jackson of Washington—who have withdrawn from primary campaigning—and Rep. Shirley Chisholm of New York.

A federal judge in Cleveland, Ohio, dismissed a suit seeking to invalidate the results of Tuesday's primary in Cuyahoga County. The suit contended that some voters were unable to cast ballots because of foulups at polling places.

Tabulation of Ohio's primary ballots neared completion Friday with Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey holding at least 57 Democratic convention votes. Counting of the final precincts was expected to put Humphrey's total at 77. Sen. George S.
